Just Half In Bed.

Clyde, Ky.—Mrs. I. A. Decker: "I recommend Cardui, the woman's tonic, to any woman in need of a remedy. For five years, I was unable to do my own work. Half my time was spent in bed. At last I tried Cardui. Now I am well and happy, and can do my own work." Don't suffer pain, headache, backache, and other womanly miseries, when your own druggist has on his shelf a remedy for such troubles—Cardui. Get a bottle for your shelf. As a general tonic, for weak women, nothing has been found for 50 years that would take its place. Try it, it will help you.

The March American Magazine.

The March American Magazine contains the first authentic report published in this country of certain highly important discoveries in a London laboratory as to the relative strength, both mental and physical, of the younger children of a family as compared with the older children. After examining thousands of cases the evidence seems to be that the first two children in a family are not, in the majority of cases, as strong mentally and physically as those that come later. The point for American readers of course is that economic pressure, which increases the cost of living, reduces the size of families and weakens the mental and physical strength of a nation.

There are many other important articles in the March American. For example, Stewart Edward White's story of a lion hunt; Julian Leavitt's investigation of American prisons, in which he reveals the practice of unheard-of brutalities; Ida M. Tarbell's paper on "The Business of Being a Woman"; La Follette's Autobiography, and Hugh S. Fowler's amusing and yet informing, articles on "Eating."

Splendid fiction is furnished by Edna Ferber, James Oppenheim, C. S. Raymond, Edith Ronald Merriells and H. G. Wells.

TAFT OR TEDDY

Figures Showing How President

Will Beat Lion Hunter.

In the table that follows, the first column of figures shows the total number of delegates from each State and the second column shows the number of delegates expected for Taft. It should be stated that where blanks occur in the second column they do not in all cases mean that the solid delegations from the State are conceded to the opposition. In some cases more definite reports are awaited before making any deductions even for private use. Here is the way it looks from the Taft heights:

	No. of delegates.	For Taft.

There will be many changes in the Taft calculations as the campaign progresses, it goes without saying, but the leaders at present hold no fear that their lines will dwindle to the danger point.

Ram's Horn Brown's Wrinkles.

The man who forgets others will soon be forgotten by them.

It is better to be solid mahogany in the rough than polished veneer. A good habit is one of the best of all good things.

The more respectable a bad man is the more harmful his example is. A sin big enough to have a name is big enough to kill a soul. Unbelief goes out through the window when a coffin comes in at the door.

Love never fails, but a good many people who say they are full of it do. If it ever rained money there are people who would be sure to have up their umbrellas.

The faith that moves mountains also moves a lot of other things. The great man of today is only a sample copy of what all men will some day be.

More showers of blessing would strike the church if we did not have so much dry preaching.

The man who walks with God will never get into the mire.

A good man helps to make the world better, not so much by what he says as by what he is.

A man who had been without food and water for fifteen days was found in a carload of corn when the car was opened at Johnson City, Tenn. He was unconscious, but soon was revived. He was sealed up in the

MAINE IS SAFE FOR GOV. WILSON

Representative McGillicuddy Says Delegation Will be for New Jersey Man.

NO INSTRUCTIONS EXPECTED

Democrats of That State Believe Surest Method for Their Party to Achieve Victory is by Nominating the Governor.

Maine is another state that can be considered safe for the nomination of Governor Woodrow Wilson for the presidency, according to the assurance of Representative Daniel G. McGillicuddy of Maine, who has come to be considered one of the ablest men in the house in the short time since the sweeping Democratic victories in his state caused his election to the Sixty-second congress and that of a Democratic governor and two United States senators. With Governor Wilson as the choice of the national Democracy for the presidency, the Maine congressman believes that his state will give the party its electoral vote.

It is the confident opinion of Congressman McGillicuddy that a majority of the Democrats of Maine will endorse Governor Wilson for the presidential nomination, notwithstanding the fact that New England has a candidate whose name will be presented to the Baltimore convention.

Uninstructed, but Safe.

"Maine will not instruct its delegation to the Baltimore convention," said Mr. McGillicuddy in a statement at Washington, "but Governor Wilson's friends can count on Maine's vote when the balloting begins. I have sounded the sentiment of the people of my district and of the state generally and I am convinced that the people are for Wilson."

"Maine Democrats have tasted victory in their state elections and they are anxious to see their party triumph in the national contest. They believe that the surest method for the party to achieve victory in November is to nominate Governor Wilson. Wilson can win, the people of my state believe, and that is the first question they ask in selecting their candidate."

Surer Victor Than Foss.

"Governor Foss of Massachusetts is a capable man and a high type of Democrat, in my opinion. He is the presidential size. And he has a considerable following among Maine voters. Apart from those who support him because he is a New Englander, Governor Foss is now second in the race so far as the Democrats of my state are concerned. A safe majority of them are convinced, however, that with Governor Wilson as the standard bearer the party will be in better fighting trim than with any of the other men in the field nominated."

"Personally I regard Governor Wilson as the best equipped man in the race for the Democratic nomination. He is a man of sound principles and certain strength and he can make a better fight than any other Democrat. I believe he can draw more votes from the independent wings of both parties than any other man in the country. With Wilson nominated I would have no fear for Democratic victory."

Worthless Tribe of Hottentots. In the Port Nolloth district, South Africa, is the Richtersveld, "an immense area occupied by a handful of worthless Hottentots, some sixty-five families, or 400 members all told." So worthless are they, one reads, that as often as not they eat up the seed wheat supplied to them by the government in seasons of scarcity instead of sowing it. The natural springs at their doors are not utilized, but neglected, and so a more industrious and energetic race of men is shut out and debarred from doing justice to the land. But they are a socialistic community. When one kills a sheep or goat all the others flock around to help him eat it, and this applies to all foodstuffs; hence the native's idleness. He knows that if he works he will fare no better than those who do not work.

Beyond That Stage.

Frank Coffyn, the aviator, was talking in Detroit about the perils of flying. "When we aviators hold our Thanksgiving," he said, "there is usually something ghastly about it. We're grateful only to have broken one leg, or something of that sort. Ghastly gratitude—a little like the huckster's, in fact. 'I hear your wife's ill,' a friend said to the huckster. 'She is that—terrible ill,' the huckster replied. 'Dangerous!' said the friend. 'Don't tell me she's dangerous!' 'I'm thankful to say,' said the huckster, 'that she's too weak to be dangerous any more.'"

Believe Always in Right.

Sometimes when you are worn and weak with the struggle; when it seems that justice is a dream, that honesty and loyalty and truth count for nothing, that the devil is the only good paymaster; when hope grows dim and flickers, then is the time when you must tower in the great sublime faith that right must prevail, then must you throttle these impulses of doubt and despair, you must master yourself to master the world around you. This is conquest, this is what counts—From Self-Control by Jonathan Edwards, Jordan.

The March Strand Magazine.

The Strand Magazine for March contains a highly interesting article entitled "Which is the Finest Race," being a symposium of artists, scientists, athletes and travelers. Professor Cleave, who has examined hundreds of thousands of both sexes of all countries, declares that in twenty-five years past the finest race in the world has been found in this country. "The Greatest Court in the World is a description of the small house in Downing Street, London, where the six pairs of 450,000,000 of people are settled. 'Some Well-known Newspaper Women' is an article that will appeal to lady journalists. The fiction is fully up to the standard to be found in this excellent magazine."
